

Black Creek Completes Security Electronics System Install at State-of-the-art Adult Detention and Law Enforcement Center, Douglas County

JUNE 10, 2013

Black Creek Integrated Systems is pleased to announce the successful completion of its cutting-edge security electronics installation at the LEED-certified 1,448 bed, Douglas County Adult Detention and Law Enforcement Center, Douglasville, Georgia. The installation includes a touch-screen-based control system - also known as the Black Creek SuperDisplay® Touchscreen System. The SuperDisplay® System is a fully integrated security solution that provides the ability to control routed electrical equipment throughout the facility simply by touching an icon on the screen. Telephone relays, card readers, mobile devices, doors, elevators, cameras, utilities and much more can be controlled and monitored from one of the 14 touchscreen stations located throughout the center.

Each security station at Douglas includes either a 32" brilliant LCD display or split screen monitor dedicated to CCTV camera call-up and video display. Additionally, local control stations with split screens are installed to allow officers to simultaneously view CCTV and video display. The locking control and monitoring aspects of the system are designed to facilitate the control and monitoring of all pedestrian and vehicular access points throughout the facility - adding to the security of designated areas within and around the detention center.

In addition to the array of SuperDisplay® touchscreen workstations, the Douglas County center uses 6 handheld wireless PDA controllers - programmed and supplied by Black Creek. The PDA device, or Black Creek Personal Detention Assistant™, provides officers with physical security management, utility control, shift log management and personal duress signaling. The facility also includes a state-of-the-art video visitation center in which family, friends and professional visitors can visit the incarcerated inmate population without setting a foot inside the detention center.
